Racial Equality & Equal Opportunities

All children have equal access and inclusive rights to the curriculum regardless of their age, gender, race, religion, belief, disability or ability. We plan work that is differentiated for the performance of all groups and individuals. The FORGE Trust is committed to creating a positive climate that will enable everyone to work free from racial intimidation and harassment and to achieve their full potential. Policy Statement

- 2.0 The FORGE Trust condemns domestic violence and abuse and recognises it is both a crime and unacceptable. It is committed to the welfare of its employees and seeks to support and assist any employee who is experiencing problems related to domestic violence and abuse. It also seeks to raise awareness of domestic violence and develop a workplace culture where domestic violence and abuse is recognised as unacceptable.
- 2.1 The Home Office (March 2013) defines domestic abuse as: any incident or pattern of incidents of controlling, coercive, threatening behaviour, violence or abuse between those aged 16 or over who are, or have been, intimate partners or family members regardless of gender or sexuality. The abuse can encompass, but is not limited to the following types of abuse:
- psychological
 - physical
 - sexual
 - financial
 - emotional
- 2.2 Controlling behaviour is:-
A range of acts designed to make a person subordinate and/or dependent by isolating them from sources of support, exploiting their resources and capacities for personal gain, depriving them of the means needed for independence, resistance and escape and regulating their everyday behaviour.
- 2.3 Coercive behaviour is:-
An act or a pattern of acts of assault, threats, humiliation and intimidation or other abuse that is used to harm, punish, or frighten their victim.
- This definition includes so-called 'honour' based violence, female genital mutilation (FGM) and forced marriage. It is made clear that victims are not confined to one gender group or ethnic group.
- 2.4 The FORGE trust also recognises that domestic violence and abuse exists in all social classes, racial, ethnic, religious and cultural groups and that it can be experienced at any age and irrespective of factors such as sexuality, marital status and disability. Due to the various types of discrimination the trust recognises that these are all factors that can affect a person's experience of seeking help and success in protecting themselves and their children from domestic violence and abuse.
- 2.5 Whilst it may seem that domestic violence and abuse is a personal matter and nothing to do with a person's employer, the FORGE Trust understands that for those experiencing it, domestic violence and abuse will affect their whole lives, including work and job performance.

2.6 The aims of this policy are:

- a) To demonstrate the trust's commitment to, and support for employees experiencing domestic violence and abuse.
- b) To raise awareness of domestic violence and abuse, what forms it can take and its likely effects on employees of the trust.
- c) To contribute to the health, safety and wellbeing of all employees in order that they can enjoy fulfilling lives both at work and home.

Statement of Intent

The FORGE Trust condemns domestic violence and abuse and recognises it is both a crime and unacceptable. It is committed to the welfare of all its employees and seeks to support and assist any employee who is experiencing problems related to domestic violence and abuse. It also seeks to raise awareness of domestic violence and develop a workplace culture where domestic violence is recognised as unacceptable. A full copy of the Trust's Employee Domestic Violence and Abuse Policy is available from the Principal / Head of Academy or can be obtained on the FORGE Trust website.

What is Domestic Violence and abuse?

The Home Office (March 2013) defines domestic abuse as:- any incident or pattern of incidents of controlling, coercive, threatening behaviour, violence or abuse between those aged 16 or over who are, or have been, intimate partners or family members regardless of gender or sexuality. The abuse can encompass, but is not limited to the following types of abuse:

- psychological
- physical
- sexual
- financial
- emotional

Controlling behaviour is:-

a range of acts designed to make a person subordinate and/or dependent by isolating them from sources of support, exploiting their resources and capacities for personal gain, depriving them of the means needed for independence, resistance and escape and regulating their everyday behaviour.

Coercive behaviour is:-

An act or a pattern of acts of assault, threats, humiliation and intimidation or other abuse that is used to harm, punish, or frighten their victim.

This definition includes so-called 'honour' based violence, female genital mutilation (FGM) and forced marriage. It is made clear that victims are not confined to one gender or ethnic group.

The FORGE Trust also recognises that domestic violence and abuse exists in all social classes, racial, ethnic, religious and cultural groups and that it can be experienced at any age and irrespective of factors such as sexuality, marital status and disability. However, various types of discrimination can mean that these are all factors that can affect a person's experience of seeking help and success in protecting themselves and their children from domestic violence and abuse.

Whilst it may seem that domestic violence and abuse is a personal matter and nothing to do with a person's employer, the trust understands that for those experiencing it, domestic violence and abuse will affect their whole lives, including work and job performance.

If you are abused who can you turn to?

If you are being abused by someone you live with or have had a relationship with, there are things you can do. There are individuals and organisations that can give you practical and emotional support, both inside and outside school. You can talk to your principal, your line manager, a member of the Human Resources Team, or your Trade Union representative for advice and guidance.

What can you expect from the academy and/or The FORGE Trust as your employer?

Confidentiality and Child Protection Concerns

The FORGE Trust recognises that confidentiality is essential for an employee who is experiencing domestic violence and abuse. In most circumstances whatever you tell your principal or line manager will remain confidential and will not be revealed to anyone without your permission.

However, if you give information which leads your principal or line manager to believe that a child has suffered or is at risk of suffering harm, they will have a responsibility to inform the Local Authority Designated Officer (LADO) and/or the CFCS Department about this and will aim to seek your agreement to do so. The trust has rigorous child protection procedures to follow which may involve external agencies such as the Police, the LADO or the CFCS Department. Your principal or line manager may pass on their concerns without your agreement if they remain concerned about a child's welfare. Your principal or line manager will discuss this with the Local Authority Designated Officer for Schools and Education Services and/or the HR Service before doing this.

The CFCS Department of the County Council is also a source of support you should be aware of. Staff in CFCS recognise that living with domestic violence and abuse is frightening for adults and children. The CFCS Department will want to support you in protecting your children and will work with you to see if there is any help they can offer before things get worse. You may also therefore contact a CFCS Duty Social Worker for further advice. (See later section, sources of help and advice).

Support

The principal and everyone within the trust are concerned about your health, safety and welfare and will therefore respond in an effective manner to any employee disclosing s/he is experiencing domestic violence and abuse.

Time Off

You may need time off from the academy to attend counselling sessions or court hearings or to make alternative living arrangements. The FORGE Trust have discretionary powers to grant up to 5 days leave of absence in any one year for urgent, personal reasons. Any employee suffering domestic violence and abuse will be eligible to request time off in accordance with these leave provisions. All requests will be treated confidentially and sympathetically.

Initially requests for time off should be raised with your principal but, if you prefer, you may initially contact the HR Service or your trade union representative for initial advice.

Adapting Working Arrangements

A change in working hours, work location, or other temporary measures for protecting your safety may be possible. Full consideration will be given to security arrangements for you, such as screening of telephone calls and not giving information about your work arrangements to callers. In certain circumstances it may be possible to consider redeployment from your existing job on a temporary basis, if this is practical.

The FORGE Trust recognises that domestic violence and abuse may have a negative impact on your performance at work. You will not be discriminated against because of domestic violence and abuse however, it is important that you discuss any problems and needs immediately with your principal, line manager, HR Business Partner and/or your trade union representative, in order that support and guidance may be offered.

Money

It is possible for the trust to consider ways in which it can help with financial issues, for example, changing the method by which you receive your salary or issuing an advance of pay. This is a matter for individual academies in conjunction with the trust to consider on an individual basis but matters of this sort will be viewed sympathetically. Any financial requests should be made initially through your principal so this can be discussed and where necessary arranged through the Finance Payroll Team. Please note that your trade union may also be able to assist with emergency financial support and you should contact them directly.

Crisis Planning

There may be a time when you have to leave your home in a hurry. It is helpful if you have already thought about how you would do it and have a plan ready to help you feel more in control. The following checklist provides some ideas.

Carry with you a list of telephone numbers of friends, relatives and emergency numbers.

Try to save some money for bus or taxi fares if needed.

Keep an extra set of keys for your home or car with someone you trust in case you need to leave immediately.

Keep the items you will need and some clothes in a bag packed ready. Keep it somewhere where you can quickly get hold of it.

Appendix 2 – GUIDANCE FOR PRINCIPALS, TRUSTEES AND OTHER ACADEMY LEADERS/ LINE MANAGERS

Statement of Intent

The FORGE Trust condemns domestic violence and abuse and recognises it is both a crime and unacceptable. This policy has been agreed with all of the recognised trade unions for all school employees. In adopting this policy the Trust is committed to the welfare of all its employees and seeks to support and assist any employee who is experiencing problems related to domestic violence and abuse. It also seeks to raise awareness of domestic violence and abuse and develop a work place culture where domestic violence and abuse is recognised as unacceptable.

A full copy of The FORGE Trust Domestic Violence and Abuse Policy should be readily available in the academy for staff to access and is available on The FORGE Trust website.

This document, which incorporates Appendix 1 "Information for all Academy Employees" should be publicised and made available to all staff.

Definition

The cross-government definition of domestic violence and abuse is: - any incident or pattern of incidents of controlling, coercive, threatening behaviour, violence or abuse between those aged 16 or over who are, or have been, intimate partners or family members regardless of gender or sexuality. The abuse can encompass, but is not limited to:

- psychological
- physical
- sexual
- financial
- emotional

Controlling behaviour is: -

A range of acts designed to make a person subordinate and/or dependent by isolating them from sources of support, exploiting their resources and capacities for personal gain, depriving them of the means needed for independence, resistance and escape and regulating their everyday behaviour.

Coercive behaviour is: -

An act or a pattern of acts of assault, threats, humiliation and intimidation or other abuse that is used to harm, punish, or frighten their victim.

(This is not a legal definition.)

The FORGE Trust recognises that domestic violence and abuse exists in all social classes, racial, ethnic, religious and cultural groups and that it can be experienced at any age and irrespective of factors such as sexuality, marital status and disability. However, various types of discrimination can mean that these are all factors that can affect a person's experience of seeking help and success in protecting themselves and their children from domestic violence.

Whilst it may seem that domestic violence and abuse is a personal matter and nothing to do with a person's employer the governing body understands that for those experiencing it, domestic violence and abuse will affect their whole lives, including work and job performance.

Recognising that an employee may need help

It is not always easy to recognise that an employee is experiencing domestic violence and abuse and may require some assistance. Certain indicators such as a sudden change in behaviour, depression, inability to concentrate, obvious injuries or regular but unexpected absence from work may be indicative of a variety of problems, of which domestic violence and abuse may be one.

Warning Signs

- Comes to work repeatedly with injuries.
- Unusual number of calls from home and strong reaction to the calls.
- Late for work and needing to leave early.
- Secretive about home life.
- Frequent absenteeism.
- Emotional reactions such as tearful, angry, depressed, nervous, confused.
- Partner exerts unusual amount of control over their life.
- Partner makes demands over their work schedule.
- May be extremely passive or aggressive.
- May seem chronically depressed or depressed in cycles.
- May isolate themselves at work.

These are just a few characteristics. Different people will react in different ways. A more important sign is when an individual behaves in a way that is unusual for her or him.

The role of the Principal or line manager

As a Principal / Head of Academy you have a responsibility for the health, safety and wellbeing of all staff employed at your school. Almost one third of all women will experience domestic violence and abuse at some point in their lives and some of these will be your employees.

As Principal / Head of Academy it is important that you respond positively to an employee disclosing a problem with domestic violence and abuse. Discussing this issue will have taken a great deal of courage and your response may be a crucial factor in determining whether an employee seeks help.

There are a number of ways you can be helpful:

- Try to develop an understanding and supportive climate within the academy working environment.
- Make yourself approachable – give employees the opportunity to talk to you confidentially, both formally, through any regular one to one sessions you have, or informally.
- Make relevant literature generally available, such as the 'Encompass leaflet' and the publicity provided by Women's Aid
- Display any publicity information prominently.
- Look out for warning signs of domestic abuse and ensure information is available, do not however, pressure an employee to disclose information to you.
- Remember you are not an expert in this area, an understanding approach and offer of basic information is all that is required.
- Be aware that no advice is better than bad advice.
- Do not pressure a victim to leave the relationship, the nature of domestic abuse is that the victim will often stay within the relationship or return to it. Respect their decision.

Confidentiality and Child Protection Concerns

Confidentiality is essential for an employee who is experiencing domestic violence and abuse. It is important that the employee knows that whatever they tell you will remain confidential and will not be revealed to anyone without their permission. In some cases where a violent or abusive partner has discovered their partner has confided in someone, this has resulted in more violence and even death.

The only exception to this may be where it is necessary to invoke the trust's child protection procedures where, for example, it is revealed that children are also being abused or at risk of harm. In this case you have a duty to report this. The employee will need to understand that that in these situations procedures will be followed in accordance with the NSCB domestic violence policy and DFE Working Together policy and procedures. Information to be shared should be factual and evidence based where known – if a member of staff is unsure what information they should provide they should seek the advice from the person with designated persons safeguarding responsibilities.

In all cases it is important not to lose sight of the fact that the employee is experiencing domestic violence and to ensure that the situation does not become centred solely around her/his child(ren). Where this situation occurs you should immediately discuss your concerns with the Local Authority Designated Officer (LADO) for Schools and Education Services. The LADO may want to further discuss the implications with a Business Partner within the HR Service.

Allowing time off work

An employee who is experiencing domestic violence and abuse will almost certainly need to take time off work to attend counselling sessions, court hearings or to make alternative living arrangements, etc. Conditions of service allow the trust to approve absence with pay in cases of compassionate leave and urgent domestic business under the special leave provisions. Please remember that a refusal to allow time off may often add to the anxiety of the employee concerned. Principals / Head of Academies should respond positively and sympathetically to requests for reasonable time off under these circumstances. The Trust HR Service Business Partner can give you further advice about allowing time off work.

Adapting working arrangements

Employers owe a duty of care to their employees. It may be that the most effective way a principal can help an employee is to consider a change in their working arrangements, probably temporarily, but possibly on a permanent basis. Perhaps s/he is being harassed by telephone calls from the abuser, in which case a colleague or answering machine could screen calls. This may not always be straightforward in an academy situation and will need some careful thought and planning. At particular times s/he may need to be more flexible about starting/finishing times and lunch breaks to avoid unwelcome visits; a temporary relocation of workplace may be considered. Whatever the needs, it is important for principals to consider all options carefully and be as flexible as possible in the circumstances.

It should be recognised that domestic violence and abuse will probably have a negative impact on the performance of the employee concerned and it is important that the employee is supported and positive consideration is given to measures to temporarily alleviate work pressures. In certain exceptional circumstances the employee may be considered for redeployment and if this is the case you should contact the Trust HR Service for advice.

It is important to ensure that any action taken complies with the wishes of the employee concerned and that s/he does not feel blamed or punished in any way. To minimise the potential for conflict in the workplace, any changes to working arrangements should be communicated in an appropriate way to other colleagues whilst maintaining confidentiality.

Advice about the possibilities of changes to working arrangements can be gained from The FORGE Trust HR Business Partner.

Finance

An employee experiencing domestic violence and abuse may request an advance of pay in an emergency situation or might also wish to request a change in the method of paying their salary. Both of these are possibilities and will be a matter for individual academies to consider with the trust. Individual requests made on this basis should be considered sympathetically and actioned quickly.

Please note that trade unions may also be able to assist individual members with emergency financial support. Employees should be encouraged to contact their trade union for advice on this.

Dealing with perpetrators of domestic violence

In some cases the abuser may actually harass an employee at the workplace. In these circumstances both the victim and her/his colleagues may be at risk. If this person has no legitimate reason to be in the academy he/she is trespassing and may be escorted from the premises. Do not agree to pass on messages from a perpetrator to principals of domestic violence and abuse or disclose the address or whereabouts of an employee who has fled violence. In extreme cases, the Legal Services Team of The FORGE Trust can provide advice on dealing with these situations.

Inevitably there will also be occasions where employees themselves are perpetrators of domestic violence and abuse. Creating an organisational culture in which domestic violence and abuse is unacceptable may help to influence perpetrators behaviour. Where perpetration of domestic violence and abuse conflicts with the job role, principals should seek guidance from the trust. In some cases this could put at risk the continued employment of the perpetrator.

Web Sites

There are also a number of web sites providing information on a range of domestic violence and abuse related issues and services. The addresses provided below are a useful starting point – all include links to other useful sites. It would be useful to remind employees that abusers may be able to see information which has been viewed on the internet. The sites detailed below give instructions for clearing computer histories or emptying cache files. However, many browser types have features that display recently visited sites that cannot be cleared. The safest way for an individual to find information on the internet would be at a local library, friend's house or at work. Please ensure that employees are able to access the internet for this purpose if they wish. Information regarding how to delete search history, passwords and temporary files from the 4 most common internet Browsers can be found by following the links below:
